

Earnings Review: ABN AMRO Bank N.V. (“ABN”)

Recommendation

- Although solid operating income performance for 1Q2018 was dragged down by higher impairment charges, these problems related to specific sectors and are unlikely to continue in management’s view.
- Consistent efforts in cost reduction initiatives, with a focus on digitalisation and reduction of headcounts have helped lower the underlying cost of business. ABN is on track in achieving its 56-58% cost/income target by 2020.
- Higher risk weighted assets led to a fall in capital ratios. That said, ABN’s CET 1 ratio at 17.5% remains well above the minimum requirement of 11.75% and supports the continuation of our Neutral (3) Issuer Profile.
- Compared to similarly rated banks at Neutral (3), we see better value elsewhere against the ABNANV 4.75 ‘26c22, in particular the BNP 4.3 ‘25c20. We also like the BAERVX 5.75 PERPc22 as we think the spread pick up more than compensates for the smaller but more focused business profile as well as its relatively weaker position within the capital structure.

Key Considerations

- Solid underlying performance offset by higher impairments. ABN announced its 1Q2018 results with operating results up 10% y/y, driven by higher operating income and well-managed operating expenses. 1Q2018 operating income was up 4% y/y on the back of higher net interest income (+5% y/y) and other operating income (+15% y/y). Net interest income grew on the back of loan growth and a higher net interest margin (‘NIM’) of 1.66% (1Q2017: 1.56%). Other operating income was higher due to higher equity participation results and revaluations gains on the stake in equensWordline. Net profit for 1Q2018 however fell 3% y/y to EUR595mn due to higher impairment charges on loans and other advances which totaled EUR208mn (1Q2017: EUR63mn). On a q/q basis, despite higher impairment charges incurred and lower operating income (-4% q/q), net profit was 10% higher q/q due to a decrease in operating expenses (-18% y/y) relative to the higher year-end expenses and incidental cost incurred in 4Q2017.
- Operating expenses kept in check: Due to incidental costs such as restructuring provisions and EUR25mn penalty fees from interest averaging, operating expenses remained flat y/y despite an underlying decline in costs as a result cost-saving programs. Personnel expenses were 6% lower y/y due to the reduced workforce while other expenses were broadly stable as IT cost savings were balanced against higher IT expenditure on innovation. Higher income generated coupled with flat operating expenses led to the cost-to-income ratio improving to 57.9% (1Q2016: 60.2%), within ABN’s target cost/income range of 56-58% by 2020.
- Higher impairments not expected to persist: Higher impairment charges were incurred for specific sectors (Diamonds & Jewellery, Natural Resources and Global Transportation & Logistics). Impairments in offshore services and shipping clients were elevated as the sector remains challenged despite the recovery in oil prices. Management however stated that the effects of impairments are expected to be temporary and will not continue to be a drag for the rest of the year.

- Pressures in mortgage loans: Retail Banking, which contributes ~41% to overall operating income, has seen flattish growth due to the competitive landscape in the mortgage lending market. While ABN's market share of new mortgage production was ~20% in 1Q2018 (in line with ABN's market share in the overall mortgage market), some market share has been foregone versus prior periods to maintain the profitability of the mortgage book. New mortgage production in 1Q2018 decreased 24%y/y to EUR4bn. This led to operating income for the Retail Banking segment falling 9% q/q and 2% y/y 1Q2018. Lower income was also attributable to the transfer of clients to Private Banking. As for other segments, better operating income from business growth was over-shadowed by higher impairments in Commercial Banking and Corporate & Institutional Banking, while Private Banking performance benefited from lower operating expenses.
- Balance sheet remained stable: ABN's balance sheet grew marginally by 1% due to higher securities financing (seasonal) and an increase in financial investments as well as a rise in financial assets held for trading. Loans and advances to banks fell 7% q/q but this was mitigated by growth in loans and advances to customers (+3.5% q/q) particularly in corporate loans (Commercial Banking +3% q/q and Corporate & Institutional Banking +9% q/q). Growth in demand for credit from corporates continues to indicate solid domestic operating conditions for Dutch banks.
- Shift of focus in Private banking: In Nov 2016, ABN sold its private banking operations in Asia and the Middle East to focus on further strengthening its private banking business in Northwest Europe. With ABN's announcement in February 2018 that it will be selling its Luxembourg business to focus even more on its core private banking market in North-West Europe, ABN is hoping to simplify its operations and harmonise its client segment, service offering and platforms to create a single private bank. This initiative is part of ABN's broader strategy to streamline its operations through digitalisation and efficiency improvements, which has so far included a gradual decline in headcount and size of the retail branch network.
- Capital ratios above minimums: Despite still decent earnings performance this quarter, an increase in risk-weighted assets ("RWA") (+1.7% y/y) due to the impact of IFRS9 as well as growth in credit RWA from loans growth led to a drop in ABN's capital ratios. ABN's fully loaded CET1 ratio fell 20bps to 17.5% (4Q2017: 17.7%). Although at the lower end of its capital target range for 2018 of 17.5%-18.5%, the ratio is well above its reported 2019 fully-loaded minimum Supervisory Review and Evaluation Process CET1 requirement of 11.75%. ABN's fully loaded leverage ratio also dipped to 4.0% for 1Q2018 (4Q2017: 4.1%), but nevertheless above the 3.0% minimum requirement and in line with ABN's target level.
